

Bio

At just 17-years old, Ebhoni has a sense of maturity, focus and determination that is not often found in millennials of her age. Born and raised in Toronto, Ebhoni discovered her singing talent at a young age. It quickly became routine for Ebhoni to entertain visiting friends and family at home with her impressive vocals, and soon this extended to the rest of the world thanks to the platform of YouTube. At the age of ten, Ebhoni upload her very first cover of Keyshia Cole's "Love."

She continued to grow her YouTube channel organically from there, tackling various artists for different song covers, and ultimately getting upwards of 100,000 plays per video. By the time Ebhoni was 11-years old, she was focused on writing her own music as well. She did not take this lightly, as she invested in studio time around the city of Toronto, releasing her first original record at the age of 12.

In the few years since she has begun writing her own lyrics and finding her own production to cultivate a unique sound, mixing pop elements with experimental rnb — although the peak of her talent and career has yet to come, she's ensured she's on the right path. It was only in March of 2016 that she released her first song on SoundCloud "How Does It Feel," while recently she released her debut ep "Mood Ring."
